Colombian Conflict (1964 -)

The Colombian conflict is really a set of conflicts and the peace agreements reflect both different processes relating to different conflict groups and dyads, and processes taking place at different times in a complex peace process history. The Colombian civil war has its roots in the late 1940s and the violent infighting between liberal and the conservative factions. Emerging from the liberal tradition with a thorough grounding in nationalist communist ideology, the Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia—People's Army (FARC) began its armed insurrection against the Colombian government in 1964. Other left-wing guerrillas emerged as well, most notably the socialist/populist M-19, which would later be integrated into the formal political system in the peace process of 1990s; the National Liberation Army (ELN), which has strong roots in liberation theology, and the Maoist Ejército Popular de Liberación (EPL) (also part of the 1990 process, less successfully). Several stages of peace processes were undertaken by the various sides, which were further complicated by the emergence of right-wing paramilitary 'self-defence' forces. The peace agreement between the Colombian government under President Uribe and the main alliance of the paramilitary groups, the United Self-Defence Forces of Colombia (AUC), concluded in 2005 and is still heavily disputed as several remnants are still active, but now subsumed under the heading 'Bacrim' (Bandas criminales). In addition, FARC and ELN maintain a military presence, but both demonstrate a strong interest in completing successful peace negotiations with the government, with the most recent agreements being between FARC and the Government.

Page 1-2, Article I.1.,

Within the framework of the trust-building measures, the National Government and the FARC – EP have agreed on initial actions, immediately and with strictly humanitarian purposes, to locate, identify and respectfully deliver the remains of persons deemed as missing within the context and due to the armed conflict.

For that purpose, we have agreed to ask for the support of the International Committee of the Red Cross for the design and implementation of special humanitarian plans for the search, location, identification and respectable delivery of remains to their relatives.

The National Government and the FARC - EP undertake to provide the ICRC with the information they have available and to facilitate the execution of the special humanitarian plans. Based on the information provided by the Government and the FARC-EP, in addition to the information provided by victims' organizations, within the framework of the Dialogue Table, a working plan will be defined for the ICRC and the National Legal Medicine and Forensic Sciences Institute (National Legal Medicine and Forensic Sciences Institute) to design and set in motion the special humanitarian plans. In all cases, information and support will be requested from the Prosecutor General's Office (Fiscalía General).

The Table, in coordination with the National Legal Medicine and Forensic Sciences Institute and the ICRC, may ask for additional support from specialized organizations or institutions to carry out the process involving the search, location, identification and respectable delivery of remains.

As a first measure, the delegations of the National Government and the FARC-EP have agreed that:

The National Government will accelerate, on the one hand, the identification and respectable delivery of victims' remains and of those who have died in the course of Law Enforcement operations and buried as N.N. in cemeteries located in the zones most affected by the conflict, pursuant to the recommendations made by the National Legal Medicine and Forensic Sciences Institute; and on the other hand, the respectable delivery of the identified remains which have not been delivered yet to their relatives. Whenever necessary, support will be requested from the ICRC for the respectable delivery of the remains to the relatives of the FARC-EP members.

The FARC-EP will provide information for the location and identification of the remains of victims whose location is known to them, and will contribute to the respectable delivery of same.

In all cases, the respectable delivery will be carried out considering the will of the relatives, who will be provided with the required psycho-social support.

In order to strengthen the institutional capacity and the participation of the victims in the search, location, identification and respectable delivery of the remains of persons deemed as missing, the National Government and the FARC-EP have agreed to ask the Commission for the Search of Missing Persons (Comisión de Búsqueda de Personas Desaparecidas) to develop, within the following four (4) months, a plan with recommendations aimed at enabling the achievement of said purpose, for which purpose it will call upon the participation of victims, specialized and human rights organizations.
