Algerian Civil War (1990 - 1998)

The conflict has involved secularist and Islamic political forces. After the Front Islamique du Salut (FIS) won local councils and the first round of national elections in 1990 and 1991 respectively, the ruling state party, Front Libération National (FLN) dissolved Algeria's parliament and suspended the constitution and the army council took over the reins of government. After protests by FIS, the military regime imposed a state of emergency, effectively triggering off a bloody civil war as Islamist militias rose in opposition. The FIS split, and the breakaway Groupe Islamique Armé (GIA) became known for some of the most violent anti-government actors. Violence peaked in 1995 after the military candidate won in presidential elections. Heavily pressured by the military, FIS-loyalists declared a ceasefire in 1997 and after presidential elections in 1999, President Abdelaziz Bouteflika enacted a new amnesty law, which saw the number of insurgents shrink dramatically. By 2002, the GIA was effectively beaten militarily, however, various small Islamist groups continue to operate in the region.

The Algerian people call on each and every citizen to help to strengthen national unity, to promote and consolidate the country's character and national identity, and to perpetuate the noble values of the Declaration of November 1954 across the generations. Convinced of the importance of this endeavour which will keep future generations close to their roots and their culture, the people mandate the state to preserve and promote the nation's character and culture, by promoting its history and the religious, cultural and linguistic spheres. The sovereign Algerian people approve the present Charter for Peace and Reconciliation and mandate the President of the Republic to take all necessary measures to implement its provisions.

All Algerian men and women are absolutely convinced that no political, social or economic development will bring the benefits they hope for, without a return to peace and security. Having been deprived, for a time, of this peace and security, they appreciate how important it is, for each and every one of them and for the nation itself. A new approach is now needed for a definitive return to peace and security based on national reconciliation, because it is only through national reconciliation that we can heal the wounds caused by this national tragedy. The Algerian people genuinely desire national reconciliation. And this desire is all the more acute given the many developmental challenges Algeria now faces. The Algerian people are convinced that in national reconciliation lies hope and the chance to consolidate all the advantages of a democratic and republican Algeria, to the great benefit of all of its citizens.

Page 3, II. MEASURES DESIGNED TO CONSOLIDATE PEACE

- Firstly: A moratorium on legal proceedings against any individual who has reported to the authorities since January 13, 2000, date of debarment of the Civic Concord law.
- Secondly: A moratorium on legal proceedings against all individuals who cease fighting and turn in their weapons. This moratorium does not apply to any person involved in group killings, rape or attacks using explosives in public places.
- Thirdly: A moratorium on legal proceedings against any wanted individuals, in the country or abroad, who give themselves up voluntarily to the competent Algerian authorities. This moratorium does not apply to any person involved in group killings, rape or attacks using explosives in public places.
- Fourthly: A moratorium on legal proceedings against all individuals involved in terrorism support networks who decide to declare their activities to the competent Algerian authorities.
- Fifthly: A moratorium on legal proceedings against all individuals charged with contempt of court, other than those involved in group killings, rape or attacks using explosives in public places.
- Sixthly: Individuals charged and imprisoned for activities supporting terrorism to be pardoned.
- Seventhly; Individuals charged and imprisoned for acts of violence to be pardoned, other than those involved in group killings, rape or attacks using explosives in public places.
- Eighth: Reduced and commuted sentences for all persons, whether wanted or definitively charged, not covered by the moratorium on legal proceedings described above.

- Thirdly: Missing persons are considered to be victims of the national tragedy, and their successors are entitled to compensation.

- Secondly: The Algerian people consider it a national duty to ensure that no citizen should feel excluded on the grounds of poor choices made by a family member. They consider it important in the interests of Algeria to eliminate all instances of exclusion which could be exploited by the enemies of the nation.

- Thirdly: The Algerian people believe that national reconciliation must address the predicament of families whose members have participated in terrorist action.

- Fourthly: The Algerian people agree that the State will provide state support for families tried and tested by the terrorist activities of their family members. By approving the present charter the Algerian people wish to consolidate peace and the foundations of national reconciliation. They believe that from now on it is the duty of every citizen to make their contribution to peace, security and national reconciliation, so that Algeria will never relive the national tragedy she has endured, and may proclaim "Never again"! The people mandate the President of the Republic to request the pardon of every victim of the national tragedy and thereby to embed peace and national reconciliation.

Nature of state (general)

Page 3, I. THE ALGERIAN PEOPLE'S HOMMAGE TO THE SAVIOURS OF THE DEMOCRATIC AND POPULAR REPUBLIC OF ALGERIA:

The Algerian people pay tribute to the Popular National Army as well as to the Security Services and all the Patriots and anonymous citizens who helped them, for their patriotic commitment and sacrifices which have saved Algeria and preserved the assets and institutions of the Republic. The Algerian people, by sovereign adoption of this Charter, affirm that no one in Algeria or abroad may exploit or capitalise on the wounds inflicted by the national tragedy to attack the institutions of the Democratic and Popular Republic of Algeria, weaken the State, damage the reputation of any of the officials who have duly served it or tarnish Algeria's international reputation.

The Algerian people who embrace the present charter declare that from now on every person in the country must adhere to its will. They reject all external interference which might contradict their sovereign choice, freely and democratically expressed in the present Charter. They confirm that from now every citizen must devote him or herself to the task of national reconstruction, while respecting the rights and duties conferred on all by the Constitution and by the laws of the Republic. The Algerian people declare their determination to use all of the State's institutions to defend the Democratic and Popular Republic of Algeria and its democratic and pluralist system against any extremist or antinational interference. While underlining their wish to modernise Algeria, they proclaim their determination to work to promote its character and identity.

The Algerian people are reminded that the missing persons dossier has been under consideration by the State for at least a decade and is being closely examined in order to deal with it appropriately. They are also aware that the drama of these missing persons is a consequence of the scourge of terrorism which has afflicted Algeria. And they confirm that in many cases these disappearances are the result of the criminal activity of bloodthirsty terrorists who take the lives of everyone into their own hands, whether Algerian or foreign. The sovereign Algerian people firmly reject all claims that the State is directly responsible for these disappearances. They consider that the reprehensible acts of certain state agents, which have been sanctioned by the judicial authorities each time they have occurred, cannot be used as a pretext for discrediting the law enforcement authorities, most of whom discharge their national duties with the help of the people. It is in this spirit that the Algerian people support the following measures to bring the missing persons' dossier to a definitive conclusion.

- Thirdly: While disposed to be generous, the Algerian people cannot forget the terrible consequences of the odious instrumentalisation of the precepts of Islam, religion and the State. They affirm their right to be protected from any repetition of these events and determine, in their sovereignty, to exclude all those responsible for this exploitation from all political activity. The sovereign Algerian people also confirm that anyone participating in terrorist activities who refuses, despite the terrible human and material damage inflicted by terrorism and the instrumentalisation of religion for criminal purposes, to recognise their responsibility for originating and propagating this pseudo
"dijihad" against the nation and the institutions of the Republic, will be denied the right
